„TRANSPORTATION &

Organising a successful conference means taking care of many different aspects. Organisers not only coordinate the whole event down to the very last detail, they are also responsible for the “big picture”.

It is necessary to develop a vision for the conference with realisable goals and objectives that can be maintained and supported by the details of the event. How to get the participants to the conference is the starting point when planning your event and the White Paper, created by AIM Group International, will outline how the journey begins much earlier than the moment the participants arrive at the venue.
